HEALTHCARE

Designing for Wellness

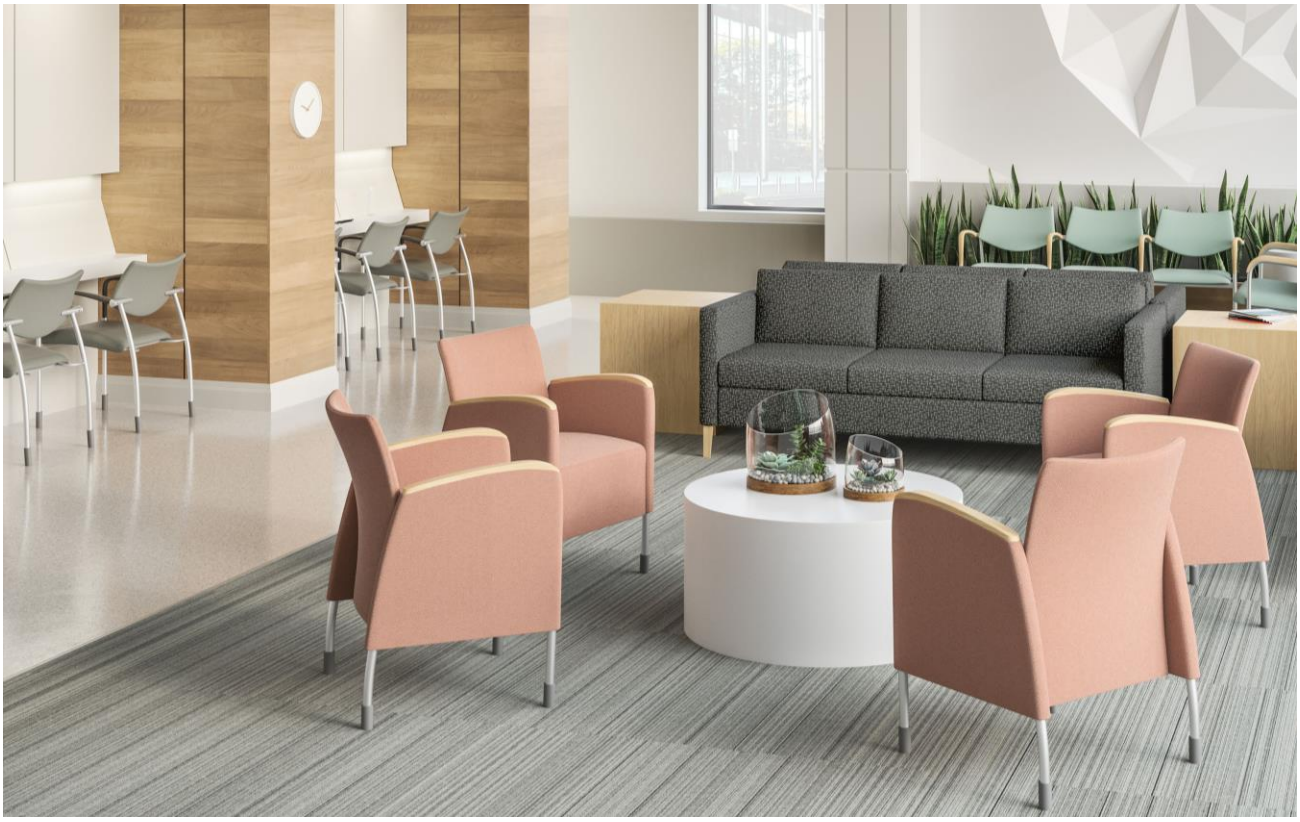
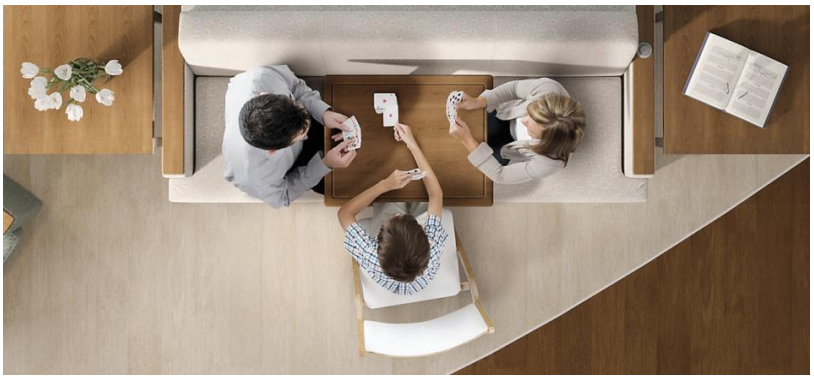
The future of healthcare is undergoing some major changes. However, we now have the opportunity to implement intentional, research-based and human-centered design. Smart furniture selections along with well thought out space planning will provide a comfortable user-experience that supports wellness. We can create spaces where employees want to work and patients feel nurtured and supported.

"A supportive Healthcare Environment starts with a well-designed Room." - NATIONAL OFFICE FURNITURE



"When people are waiting in healthcare settings, more times than not, they're emotionally or physically uncomfortable. Traditional waiting rooms are cold, hard, and unwelcoming, both visually and physically. Creating a comfortable space for waiting patients or family members is important for an overall positive experience in healthcare settings." – Allsteel | Gunlocke



Welcoming Reception & Administration Areas

make all the difference

"With the rapid pace of change in today's healthcare environments, smart and efficient workspaces are essential to the healing process. Spaces that allow caregivers the chance to focus and recharge are important to the overall success of healthcare facilities." – Carolina, Mile Marker

Project Teams

ACCOUNT MANAGER

Your account manager is your primary contact. They'll guide the process from start to finish, working in the background with the other members of your project team. They are your go-to person for anything you need throughout the course of your project.

DESIGNERS

Account managers work with a member of our design staff on projects that require more than just a simple product quote. The role of the designer varies by project, but can include the following services:

Space Planning
Finish Selection and Specification
Product Specification
Furniture Renderings
Furniture and Installation Plans

SALES SUPPORT

These team members are responsible for order entry and tracking. They work directly with manufacturers and your account manager to ensure your product delivery is sequenced correctly and arrives on time.

PROJECT MANAGER

Our project managers coordinate the installation of your products and oversee the installation process. They are tasked with keeping your installation on schedule and reporting any issues that arise. They will also work with your account manager to handle any damage or warranty claims that may arise.
